Clive's Comments

Another month and still more lockdowns and restrictions on our lives. This is how I started my comments last month and the world hasn't changed. Other countries kept on a path of reduced restrictions with increased infections. NSW rates kept going up and then started going down. Victoria has followed NSW in same pattern just over shorter timeline. Other states have locked out people from Victoria and NSW for the foreseeable future. The whole pandemic has done untold damage that I feel the authorities have refused to accept.

Unfortunately it has descended into a battle of politics and egos. So many people base their opinions on what has happened on their political bias. Most people know I am a conservative voter and assume my opinions are based on this. I would like to think I try and take an objective stance where appropriate. Granted there are many issues that really do fall on philosophical beliefs. Some of these like the role of unions in business, the state of climate change, use of nuclear power will revert to personal beliefs and attitudes. However the actions of our politicians and the level of control is very different.

Of course there are many of us that react to government controlling our lives and we can accept more control when the greater good demands it. However I find it fascinating at the level of political bias. I will talk to people who...

...I know have a leaning to labour and they will blame Scott Morrison for all the pain and suffering. I will then talk to other conservatives and they blame labour incompetence and say it is all a conspiracy.

The reality is we need to accept that Covid 19 is a serious disease that can hurt people. We must also accept that there is a vaccination and though it isn't perfect it will significantly reduce death, infection, serious illness and most other issues associated with the virus. Like the virus itself the issue of vaccination is splitting our community. The value of the vaccine is unarguable. It saves lives through many paths and has so far shown minimal negative side effects. We must understand that there are several very different vaccines which have a range of pathways to prevent the virus. I doubt there has been any other medication in the history of medicine that has had the same level of scrutiny as the group of Covid vaccines.

As a person that dislikes any form of governmental control over my life the concept of Government mandated vaccination is a complete anathema to my beliefs. I feel that every person who does not have a medical reason to not be vaccinated should be but not by mandate. I also accept that there are some sectors in our society where vaccination should be a prerequisite. This should only ever be done on sound logical needs and never on political nor 'appearance' reasons.

I look at what has happened to the people of Melbourne as criminal. Taking the politics out we have been locked down more than any other city in the world. Our numbers parallel NSW but our freedoms do not. There are so many restraints in Melbourne that have not been imposed in any other city and have no or little medical evidence to their validity. We can all see multiple actions that defy all sense of logic and we have a government that constantly fails to show any compassion. I feel there is a complete lack of real concern for the people of Melbourne. It seems to be more about face than action and other states are much the same.

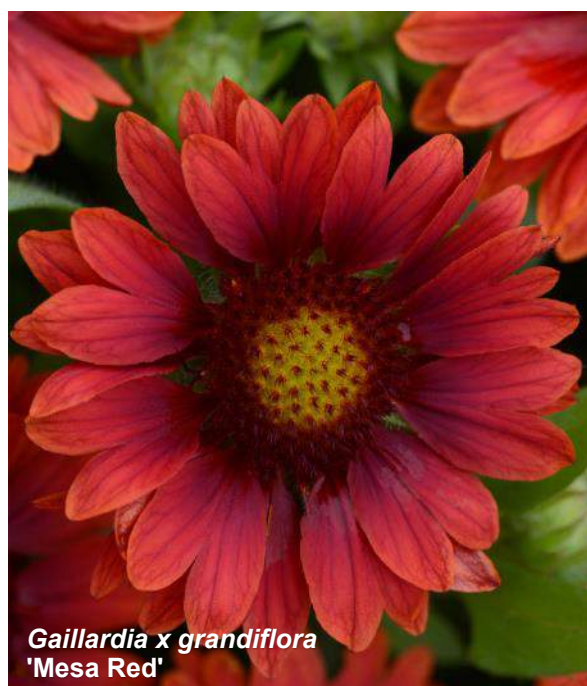

There is a rampaging debate on the effects to our health system. Why? We have had well in excess of 15 months to prepare and we haven't got anywhere near (according to media reports) being ready. This should surpass politics and is a failure at all levels. Our health system should be ready for the influx of Covid cases. We cannot keep 4 million Melbournians locked in the houses any longer and we know zero Covid is not going to happen.

Last week I was pulled over at random in my home town of Lilydale and I had to justify why I was out of my house. I had to show a permit which was invalid. Why? – because I hadn't signed it. I wrote the permit that gave me permission to drive for my work purposes. The police officer was very pleasant and said she wouldn't fine me this time. Can anyone say this is the Australia we want to live in?

We are very lucky in nursery as we can keep trading and our work places are pleasant areas to be. So let's keep propagating and growing and potting and producing lots of little oxygen machines.
